Throughout her life, Beverley Taylor Sorenson (1924–2013) was a tireless champion for the arts. She began developing an integrated arts teaching model in 1995 by collaborating with arts education professionals, state organizations, and higher education institutions throughout Utah. In 2008, the Utah State Legislature adopted the model, named it the Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program in Beverley’s honor, and has since provided the funding needed to place the program in a portion of elementary schools across the state. Right up until her passing at the age of 89, Beverley was a fixture at Capitol Hill, and she committed her time and efforts to lobbying the legislature for more funding to ensure that every elementary child in Utah receives the benefits of an arts-rich education through this program.

To develop a strong and lasting foundation, Beverley and the Sorenson Legacy Foundation have committed more than $50 million to the program, including establishing higher education programs at Brigham Young University, Southern Utah University, the University of Utah, Utah State University, Utah Tech University, Weber State University, and Westminster College to support arts learning as a key component of pre-service preparation and to provide professional learning opportunities for in-service teachers. Beverley’s vision was that every elementary school student receives a high-quality arts experience as part of their elementary education.
WHAT IS THE BEVERLEY TAYLOR SORENSON ARTS LEARNING PROGRAM?

The Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program (BTS Arts) provides arts-integrated instruction to elementary students, effectively increasing student performance in every subject—from language arts and social studies to math and science.

BTS Arts collaborates with the Utah State Board of Education (USBE), Utah Division of Arts & Museums, Utah PTA, higher education institutions, and other community organizations to provide children across the state the arts-rich education they deserve.

The program is currently available statewide to elementary and charter schools, grades K-6. BTS Arts is funded by the Utah State Legislature, and every year the Friends of BTS Arts, an advocacy group established by the Sorenson family, lobbies Utah’s elected officials to keep the program in the state’s education budget.

VISION of BTS Arts

All Utah children have access to quality learning in and through the arts as an essential part of a well-rounded education.

MISSION of BTS Arts

To provide every Utah elementary school student high quality arts learning and arts integration experiences.
DEFINITION of ARTS INTEGRATION

Arts Integration is an APPROACH to TEACHING in which students construct and demonstrate UNDERSTANDING through an ART FORM. Students engage in a CREATIVE PROCESS which CONNECTS an art form and another subject area and meets EVOLVING OBJECTIVES in both.

The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, Silverstein & Layne, 2010

INFRASTRUCTURE of BTS Arts

The Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program (BTS Arts) works in conjunction with several organizations. Districts or charters (known as Local Educational Agencies, or LEAs) and schools hire arts educators, and implement and facilitate the arts integration program in their schools.

The Utah State Board of Education administers the program statewide and collaborates with deans and university staff from Brigham Young University, Southern Utah University, University of Utah, Utah State University, Utah Tech University, Weber State University and Westminster College to provide professional learning for arts educators and classroom teachers.

These higher education institutions also work with the State Board of Education to manage the successful implementation of BTS Arts in their respective areas of the state. Art Works for Kids and Friends of BTS Arts work with the state legislators to provide ongoing funding through government funds and as a consultant to USBE.
STAKEHOLDERS of THE PROGRAM

Administrators/Principals facilitate the success of the program in schools.

Arts Educators collaborate with grade-level teachers to create and deliver arts-integrated instruction. Arts educators have the same LEA status and contract obligations as classroom teachers (e.g., before and after school contract time) and should serve in other duties as assigned. For example, lunch and recess duties should be similar as deemed reasonable in the schedule.

Arts Integration/Instructional Coaches (LEA coaches) implement BTS Arts across the LEA and at each BTS Arts school in accordance with LEA policies and procedures and BTS Arts grant guidelines. They are responsible for improving teacher capacity and performance through coaching and professional development while coordinating high-quality program components and supporting arts educators.

Art Works for Kids (AWFK) took root in 1995, when Beverley Taylor Sorenson established the foundation alongside her integrated arts teaching model that emphasizes collaborative teaching and planning between classroom teachers and arts educators. In the years since, thousands of classroom and arts teachers have received professional development in arts integration through the workshops sponsored by Art Works for Kids. The foundation has given millions of dollars to schools, districts, arts organizations, and universities to provide and support professional development opportunities for educators and consults with USBE.

Classroom Teachers collaborate with arts educator and participate in arts-integrated instruction.

Endowed Universities/Colleges are responsible for offering professional learning opportunities to teachers, administrators, arts educators, and pre-service students in their service areas; for providing information about effective practice and research-based strategies to inform leadership; for fostering partnerships to support arts education at the university and with LEAs; for consulting with USBE; and for conducting research. These universities have received funding for a professional position to further elementary arts education in Utah’s schools.

Friends of BTS Arts is an advocacy organization created to promote the Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program and to ensure that Utah’s school children receive the benefits of high-quality integrated arts instruction. The goal of Friends of BTS Arts is to bring this innovative program to all elementary students across the state. Schools participating in BTS Arts are encouraged to have parents, volunteers, faculty, family, and community members sign up with their email addresses to receive advocacy updates during legislative sessions.

LEA Arts Coordinators / Grant Managers act as liaisons between USBE, the LEA and the schools for grant writing and program implementation, including arranging appropriate schedules, spaces, and other working conditions. Art integration/instructional coaches can support the arts coordinator in this role or act as the liaison in the absence of an arts coordinator. The LEA may also designate the arts coordinator as the grant manager to oversee implementation of the grant and ensure compliance and quality.

University Professional Development Providers (PDPs) have expertise in an art form and work under the direction of their endowed university and chair to provide support to individual schools; serve as a liaison between universities, LEAs, schools and USBE; provide professional learning opportunities for teachers; and give any other support for arts integrated components. PDPs may also fill additional roles in the program as defined in the grant application.

Utah State Board of Education administers the Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program and works in tandem with Art Works for Kids, Friends of BTS Arts, partner universities and colleges, and LEAs to administer grants to implement the program in Utah’s public elementary schools.

BTS Arts FUNDING: HOW IT WORKS

A local education agency (LEA) shall complete a program grant application (or renewal application annually, due date as determined by USBE, no later than May 1.) Applications will be distributed to all LEAs online. The Board shall grant funding priority to renewal applications and shall designate an LEA for funding no later than June 1 annually.

- Grant awards will be based on arts educators serving at least two schools (0.5 FTE per school). However, a school of over 1,000 students may qualify for a full-time arts educator. LEAs may request 0.75 FTE for schools with enrollment between 700 and 1,000. LEAs may request special consideration for very small schools or unique combinations of schools based on the LEA’s long-term plan. LEAs are encouraged to pair schools of over 700 students with smaller schools and adjust the schedule accordingly.
- An LEA’s grant application shall include the collaborative development of the application with its partner endowed university and School Community Council if a match comes from School Land Trust Funds.

Grant awards will fund up to 80% of the salary and benefits (loaded salary) of the arts educators. LEAs are required to provide the remaining balance of at least 20%. Grants for an individual arts educator will be capped.

Many school community councils may use School Land Trust funds available to them as part of the required matching funds by including arts integration as part of their school improvement plan. Title I funds may also be used for the 20%, provided arts integration is outlined as a teaching strategy to improve student achievement.

LEAs shall submit complete information on exact salaries and benefits for all arts educators, instructional coaches, and/or arts coordinators employed by the LEA no later than September 30 annually.

Grant funds may not be used to supplant existing arts programs outside of BTS Arts.

Grant renewals shall receive funding priority. Priority will also be given to proposals that maximize the direct contact between the BTS Arts educator and students.

LEAs/schools benefiting from this funding will be asked to complete a brief report to show accountability for program implementation according to the Implementation Guidelines.

GUIDELINES for HIRING BTS Arts PERSONNEL

Principals, in collaboration with the university partner and LEA arts coordinator, should hire an arts educator qualified by the standards listed in Board Rule. Each educator license has a license area; some have an endorsement to indicate a specialization in a content area or set of skills. Utah Educator Licensing (PDF) provides an overview of the new licensing structure.

An educator license is like a tree:

1. Trunk is the license.
2. Branches are the license areas.
3. Leaves are the endorsements.
Licensure

Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program arts educators must have a professional educator license with a licensing area of Early Childhood, Elementary or Secondary. CTE and Special Education area licenses do not qualify.

Endorsements

A professional endorsement qualifies an educator to provide instruction in a specific content area or apply a specific set of skills in an education setting based on the essential educator competencies. BTS Arts educator endorsement requirements are determined by the license area they hold.

- Secondary License – arts educators must hold a Secondary Endorsement in the specific art form with the K-12 Extension*; or the art form specific Elementary Specialist Endorsement.
- Early Childhood or Elementary License – arts educators must hold an Elementary Specialist Endorsement in the specific art form.

*K-12 Extension to a 6-12 License and Endorsement – Educators with a secondary license may apply for the Fine Arts K-12 endorsement.

Utah's educator endorsements were designed through the lens of educator competencies that embody the knowledge, skills, and dispositions needed to teach in a particular area of concentration. These newly designed competency-based endorsement pathway options may include university coursework, microcredentials, certification exams, and other available options for demonstrating competency. Currently, an educator may choose which endorsement route to pursue. Educators already working on an endorsement under the retiring system have until June 30, 2025, to complete the requirements.

If a candidate has completed at least 1/3 of the endorsement requirements, they may apply for an Associate Endorsement. They would be considered qualified and given three years to complete the remainder of the requirements.

Visit the USBE endorsement web page for more information.

Options for underqualified arts educators

Information on educator licensing can be found on the USBE licensing web page. Candidates are encouraged to check this website frequently as rules are subject to change. Options for those needing to complete licensure are:
• Alternate Pathway to Professional Educator Licensing (APPEL) - APPEL programs are administered by local school districts, charter schools, or the Board, and prepare individuals to meet the requirements for a Utah professional license or license area of concentration. To enroll as a candidate in an APPEL program, an individual needs to be employed in a Utah school district or charter school that has a partnership with an approved APPEL program. Each APPEL program establishes its own criteria for admission and other requirements may apply.

• LEA-specific Licensure – Districts or charters may request a LEA-specific license for an educator by applying to the Utah State Board of Education.

INSTRUCTIONAL SCHEDULES for ARTS EDUCATORS

The schedule should be created to optimize student learning. Schedulers should consider the following:

- Art form
- Intended learning outcomes
- Benefits of continuity of instruction

Schools sharing arts educators must work cooperatively to create a schedule that allows the arts educator to spend full days at a single school. Neither time nor expense should be lost in traveling between schools during the instructional day; appropriate transition time must be part of the schedule. This should be a cooperative effort to achieve equity and meet the needs of each school.

Principals should develop a schedule with input from their arts educator and district personnel/grant manager. The schedule should accommodate collaboration, individual planning and prep time, while also taking holidays and early-out days into consideration. Arts educators and district personnel may consult with university PDPs and arts integration/instructional coaches for additional assistance.

Schedules of class instruction and collaborative planning should be submitted to LEA BTS Arts leadership for approval by September 30 of each year.

- Arts educators are expected to teach at least 30-45 minutes with each class individually and assess student learning. Instructional time should not be less than 30 minutes, except in kindergarten.
- The Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program should reach all students in the school on a schedule determined at the school level. Example models include:
  - Rotating through each class, using as many days as it takes to do so. This model provides instruction throughout the year to each student.
o Scheduling grade levels for blocks of time in the year for more frequent classes and still reaching all grades throughout the year. This schedule allows for more intense and sequential instruction for a specified number of weeks.

o A hybrid where some grades are served throughout the year and others on a more condensed schedule.

• Full-time benefited positions with arts educators shared between schools are preferred. The percentage of time at a school should be determined by the proportion of the total students assigned.

• Each class is given an individual time slot in the schedule. Appropriate transition time must be part of the schedule.

• Every student should attend the arts learning experience. Students should not be prevented from participating in arts instruction for reasons of remediation or punishment. Learning in the arts gives voice and personal meaning to children. Learning in the arts opens doors of understanding for students in unique and engaging ways.

COLLABORATIVE PLANNING and INSTRUCTIONAL MODELS

Collaborative planning and arts-integrated teaching benefit teachers, students, and all other stakeholders within the school community. An arts-integrated curriculum increases student engagement and improves student learning while cultivating an arts-enriched and collaborative school environment. As grade level teachers recognize the benefit of the arts in their core subjects, they learn to integrate the arts into their daily instruction. The entire school community benefits as the learning engagement of both students and teachers improves.

The structure for collaborative planning must be in place to ensure each school develops instructional models according to its needs and priorities. Increased collaboration and planning between teachers and arts educators is evident in successful BTS Arts schools.

Side-by-Side Instruction has shown to be the most effective model of arts-integrated instruction and has the most positive impact on student learning. In this model, the classroom teacher works side by side with the arts educator during the arts-integration instruction. The classroom teacher reinforces the other content, while the arts educator instructs that content through the art form. The arts educator works with the grade levels to determine content for arts integration. The classroom teacher also gains valuable professional learning as he/she observes the integration of the arts.

In the Collaborative Co-Teaching model, the classroom teacher and the arts educator plan the arts integration lessons together. The classroom teacher attends and participates with the students in the arts learning.
In the Collaboration for Integration model, the arts teacher and classroom teachers collaborate on the content for arts integration. The classroom teachers attend with their students when possible.

INSTRUCTIONAL SPACE, MATERIALS and SUPPLIES

Space – The school will provide a reasonable teaching space, appropriate for instruction of the specified art form. A dedicated setting ensures that arts integration with its specific expectations, procedures, and materials will be supported. When this is impossible (not just inconvenient), the arts educator must be provided with dedicated and adequate space for planning and storage as well as a means for transporting instructional tools to the classroom. As needed, classroom teachers must allow for the transformation of the classroom to become the “arts space.” This may be accomplished by having students reorganize the configuration or the room.

Materials and Supplies – Each school is responsible for providing the appropriate supplies, materials and instructional resources for arts instruction. Arts-specific materials can be provided by community donations, PTA fundraisers, and school or district allocations.

STRATEGIES for A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Before school begins, arts educators should:

- Know the Utah Core Standards for the art form.
- Become familiar with the Utah Core Standards for each elementary grade level.
- Ask the principal and/or each grade level/team head for a curriculum map and schedule of what the classroom teachers will be teaching throughout the school year. This will assist with ideas for arts integration.
• Set up a meeting with each grade and go prepared with ideas of integrated lessons. Discuss how the classroom teacher and arts educator can support each other in teaching the concepts to students.
• Meet with the principal(s) and discuss expectations of the arts program for the year (performances for events, end-of-year performance, artwork for parent conferences, artwork for arts night, performances for board meetings, submitting lesson plans, etc.). Come prepared to share ideas for arts integration.
• Learn and implement any school-wide classroom management techniques and procedures.
• Adopt the BTS Arts lesson plan template.
• Plan classroom management procedures (seating chart template, classroom setup, warning systems, etc.).

When setting up an arts integrated lesson:

• Plan a timeline of the project. A concept does not need to be completely learned in one lesson; projects may take several lessons to complete.
• Plan the activities involved in each lesson and the time needed for each step. Consider including brain breaks and how long the students will be asked to sit still.
• Consider what supplies can be used throughout the day with different grade levels and subjects. This can save a lot of setup time, especially if teaching from a cart.
• Implement some quick assessment ideas (ticket out the door, art walks of student works and discussions, partner questioning, etc.).

Collaborative Planning and Lesson Guide Plans:

• Know the art discipline standards, get curriculum maps, and schedule collaboration meetings.
• Become familiar and comfortable with several differentiated instruction ideas, including inclusion ideas for special needs and ELL students.

PROFESSIONAL LEARNING

Professional learning is essential for all stakeholder groups and is required for arts educators and classroom teachers. BTS Arts partners with universities and colleges to provide professional learning opportunities.

Arts educators should attend all professional learning activities for this program organized in cooperation with the university partners. Other stakeholders, including classroom teachers, administrators, community leaders, and parents can be invited to participate as deemed appropriate. The main topics will be:
• Arts core
• Arts integration
• Arts assessment
• Arts leadership/advocacy

Arts educators should collaborate with principals, district personnel and university partners to explore other available arts professional learning opportunities.

EVALUATING ARTS EDUCATORS and ARTS/INSTRUCTIONAL COACHES

Arts educators are hired by the LEA and are under the supervision of the principal(s). Evaluations of arts educators are to be completed by the principal or LEA designee. University Professional Development Providers (PDPs) may observe an arts educator to assess his or her understanding of the program. PDP observations are designed to give specific feedback to the arts educator regarding arts and arts-integrated instruction. These mentoring observations are not intended to be used in determining an arts educator’s employment status.

Arts/Instructional Coaches are also hired by the LEA and are under the supervision of the LEA administration. Coaches should discuss with their supervisors how they will be observed and evaluated.

PROGRAM APPLICATION and REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

Participation in BTS Arts requires various types of reporting throughout the year. The following reports are required, and persons responsible are indicated.

LEA Grant Application must be completed annually. Salary projections, including benefits, are also part of the grant application. USBE will send the application form to LEAs electronically, usually in January.

    o USBE and Art Works for Kids
  • Submission Deadline:
    o July 1 annually

Arts Team Schedule for the school year should be planned at the beginning of each year by the principal in cooperation with the arts educator and other arts team members.

ADVOCACY

Since BTS Arts is funded by the legislature, public visibility and support are critical to the reallocation of funding each year. Each school is expected to assist in advocacy efforts for the sustainability and growth of BTS Arts. Principals and arts educators, with support from the school's arts team, will collaborate with team members from the Friends of BTS Arts organization to create an advocacy plan specifically designed for the unique capabilities and resources of the school.

All BTS Arts schools, principals and arts educators are responsible for facilitating at least one informance, exhibit or performance in the school year, or every other year in shared schools. Scheduling of arts activities should accommodate attendance by parents, families, community representatives and politicians. A significant benefit of arts integrated instruction has proven to be the increased engagement of parents/caregivers.

- Informances/Display or informal sharing of classroom learning are an important part of instruction and a celebration of student learning. These informal events may take many forms, with audiences comprised of class members, other classes, other grade levels, parents, and/or community members. These events should focus on the learning process of performance skills and arts integration rather than the production or performance.

- Performances/Exhibits are another way to celebrate student learning and define excellence in front of a broad audience. While beneficial, performances/exhibits may be labor intensive. When planning, the school arts team, arts educator and others involved should consider the learning value of each aspect and spend time on items related to valuable learning outcomes.

- Parent Arts Nights are one type of advocacy event. Most arts nights highlight the art form of BTS Arts in the school but may also include other art forms. It is suggested that each school conduct an Arts Night each year. Or in the case of schools who share an arts educator, every other year.

If the BTS Arts educator is involved in any school performances, informances, arts nights, and/or exhibits, the school should provide advance notice of specific times and dates to their university partner, Art Works for Kids, and to USBE.

Classroom teachers should contribute to the school arts events.

Additional types of school-based advocacy efforts can include but are not limited to:

- Inviting the community to an arts performance.
- Having students write letters to legislative representatives.
- Donating art to hang on the walls of the Capitol and USBE board rooms.
- Selecting a group of students to perform for various arts supporters.
- Participating in a media story highlighting the program.
- Participating in school board meetings.
- Displaying BTS Arts participation signage.
- Including the BTS Arts logo on school website and printed materials.
- Including a link to Friends of BTS Arts on the school website home page.
- Referring to the program by name: Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program.
- Communicating the benefits of the program through frequent blurbs in newsletters and mailings.
Friends of BTS Arts Advocacy Sign-Up Sheets – Principals and arts educators are encouraged to have Friends of BTS Arts sign-up sheets at performances, parent meetings, open houses, and Back to School nights to assist with the advocacy portion of the program. (See Friends of BTS Arts website for sign-up sheets in English and Spanish.) Those who sign up will receive a few emails each year about the program and to let them know when to contact their legislators to show support for the Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Where can I find more information about BTS Arts?

BTS Arts informational documents like Implementation Guidelines and Roles and Responsibilities can be found on the Utah State Board of Education website. The website for Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program (btsarts.org) also provides advocacy information, lesson plans and other materials helpful for teachers and administrators. Each partnering university also has information for participants in their assigned region.

What is Art Works for Kids (AWFK)?

Art Works for Kids was established by Beverley Taylor Sorenson alongside her integrated arts teaching program, BTS Arts, that emphasizes collaborative teaching and planning between classroom teachers and arts educators. The foundation has given millions of dollars to schools, districts, arts organizations, and universities to provide and support professional development opportunities for educators. Thousands of classroom teachers, arts teachers and administrators have received professional development in arts integration through the workshops sponsored by Art Works for Kids.

What is Friends of BTS Arts (FoBTSArts)?

Friends of BTS Arts is an advocacy organization created to promote the Beverley Taylor Sorenson Arts Learning Program and to ensure that Utah's school children receive the benefits of high-quality integrated arts instruction. The goal of Friends of BTS Arts is to bring this innovative program to all elementary students across the state. Schools participating in BTS Arts are encouraged to have parents, volunteers, faculty, family, and community members sign up with their email addresses to receive advocacy updates during legislative sessions.

For what types of promotion/advocacy are the participating BTS Arts schools responsible?

Since BTS Arts is funded by the legislature, public visibility and support are critical to the allocation of funding each year. Legislators and decision makers should be invited to school arts events as appropriate, and in cooperation with Art Works for Kids. Schools may be asked to provide stories and/or artwork to include in publications and/or to display in selected public places.

What is a Parent Arts Night?
Parent arts nights are one type of promotional/advocacy event. Most art nights highlight the art of BTS Arts but also include other art forms. It is suggested that each school conduct an arts night each year, and in the case of schools who share a BTS Arts educator, every other year. Schools should invite representatives from AWFK, USBE, district, and partnering university as appropriate.

To whom do BTS Arts educators report? What is the line of authority?
BTS Arts educators are directly responsible to their individual school administrator. Hiring, staff support, and remediation of the arts educator is the principal's responsibility. As with all faculty, principals are responsible for the personal growth plan of each arts educator as outlined by the Utah State Board of Education.

Who are the other leaders in the program and what do they do?
- Utah State Board of Education (USBE) staff will generate, award, and fund the grants and is responsible for the implementation of BTS Arts, and the orientation of arts educators and administrators to the program guidelines.
- Arts integration coaches or LEA arts coordinators are the liaison between USBE staff, the local education agency, or LEA, (district or charter) for grant writing and program implementation. Implementation includes arranging appropriate schedules, teaching spaces and other working conditions. Coaches provide individual mentoring and oversee the school professional development plan in the arts. Coaches also coordinate with university partners for school and district professional development opportunities according to their district arts plan.
- Partner universities provide professional development for arts educators and other school employees in the arts and arts integration. There are specified workshops, videos, webinars, and course work that are required for BTS Arts educators.

What are the qualifications to be a BTS Arts educator?
The ideal arts educator has a Professional educator license as described in Utah Administrative Code Rule R277-301, with either a K-12 art-form specific endorsement or an elementary art-form specific endorsement. If the most qualified candidate does not hold a Professional license, the hiring LEA may use their own discretion to hire someone with an Associate or LEA-specific license and/or endorsement, and then should support that employee’s continuing effort to obtain a Professional license and/or endorsement.

How does an LEA recruit quality candidates?

Traditional district/charter recruiting tools can include contacting the partner university professional development providers to help advertise positions to recent graduates. A list of suggested interview questions to aid in interviewing candidates can be found on the USBE website.

How much time does an arts educator need to spend teaching the art form and/or integrating other content areas?

BTS Arts educators are expected to teach the core standards in their art form. They are also expected to collaborate with classroom teachers to identify and implement experiences where the arts can enhance core subjects in an authentic and meaningful way. Collaboration is a fundamental principle in this program.

Why does BTS Arts require collaborative teaching and planning?

Collaborative planning and arts-integrated teaching benefit teachers, students, and all other stakeholders within the school community. Arts-integrated curriculum increases student engagement and improves student learning while cultivating an arts-enriched and collaborative school environment. As grade-level teachers recognize the benefit of the arts in their core subjects, they learn to integrate the arts into their daily instruction. The entire community benefits as the learning engagement of both students and teachers improves.

How much collaborative teaching and planning are required in the grant?

Each school has the flexibility to develop this component according to the needs of their students and faculty. The structure for collaborative planning must be in place to ensure each school develops instructional models according to those needs and other school priorities. Increased collaboration and planning time between classroom teachers and arts educators is evident in successful BTS Arts schools.

What is the benefit of having a school arts team?

A school arts team builds commitment to the arts by inviting stakeholders, including administration, teachers, parents, and other community members to participate in, support, and promote arts opportunities. This engagement provides help for the arts educator and fosters an entire school community united in the arts. School arts teams should be created and maintained by the school administrator.

Where do we get supply money?
Schools/districts are responsible for providing space, a computer and other materials that are provided for every teacher. Arts-specific materials can be provided by community donations, PTA fundraisers, and school or district allocations. USBE occasionally has supply money available to schools through a grant. Districts will be notified to apply for a grant when funding is available.

Can I extend the contract for my BTS Arts educator for hours beyond the grant allocation? Can a school have two BTS Arts educators?
If a school chooses to hire a BTS Arts educator beyond the .5 or .75 FTE awarded to the school by the grant, any additional salary must be covered by the school/district. Any additional arts educators are funded by the school/district. A grant for this program cannot supplant an existing arts program.
